- 45.
46. Jeans, shirt
47. Sunday clothes
48. Children to Sunday school, sometimes Church and generally a car drive in the afternoon.
49. Little things that my children made me and gave me. My grandmother's old broach, and a little black paper Mache snuff box.
50. Attitude of the people, so many things going on, on the same night. It's impossible to go to them all, as much as I would like to
51. Painting is creative
52. Updating of buildings and up-dated without destroying their unique character, improved roads did away with dust for which Cobalt was noted for, in the early days. The street lights are a tremendous help in navigating our uneven terrain. The parks are one of the absolute necessities for any town or village. I enjoy them every day.
53. None
54. Shopping
55. It's not adequate one has to go out of town for many things. I wish I didn't have to.
56. Yes
57. Would like to see all the mines reopen again.
58. The whole year
59. Shows, all concerts, plays, Little Theatre,
60. Unique ventures, such as pottery making to use our local clay. Enlarge silver crafting. A light industry that would employ people who have not enough schooling, or have a physical disability who would be glad to go to work. A light industry could include brooms, adobe bricks out of local clay? Road markers, street signs, cast offs from the mines, flower pots, reclaiming refuse
61. I would like to see a large vacant building used as a central location for the many beautiful crafts and services this small community offers, also young people's services,
62. People with time and money.
63. First of all it is unique. Has a true mining town flavour, wouldn't want to see this lost, excellent library, excellent book store on Highway 11, lakes for swimming. It is also an artist's paradise. Mining museum, one of the best I've ever seen. Walking the back streets is fascinating.

Highlights

Alma Reese is a talented artist one of her painting won a prize. She has done several paintings, hooked rugs that are as beautiful as her painting. Loves to take long walks, she is a very talented woman.
