I was born in Dunnville Ont~~o~~ and moved to Haileybury in 1945. I had just been discharged from the Air Force and been offered this job in Haileybury diamond drilling, this was a most happy day for my wife as I had been in the war.

The only difference in Haileybury since I have come is that they used to have a bicycle for the policeman to ride instead of a car when he was on duty.

It burns me though that everything has gone sky high such as our water resources and we have no benefits from them, the water is worse now then it was before we got the new plant.

Haileybury is really a very funny town it mostly residential with no other facilities such as factories for people to work in. I believe that Haileybury was meant to be a residential area.

I would love to see an industry of some sort in Haileybury. I am not in the town itself so much as i've always worked outside the town in the Dominion of Canada and South America what I see is more as a visitor than a resident.
